Use the following workaround instead: 1 Sure Ken, I actually followed the step by step instructions on the link I provided to remove Protexis installed by Corel.. 3 Browse to %SystemDrive% Windows System32 folder 4 Copy original PSIKey.dll to program folder of application that relies on Protexis, e.. If you are certain that no applications using PSIService are still installed on your system, and this service is still running, you can remove it manually by following these instructions: 1.. I will repeat the steps here but strongly suggest reading the link I found, which seems very crisp and, for my own problem, worked as promised.. Of course, in order to keep applications such as Corel Photo Shop Pro continue running without error, the complete removal instructions cannot be followed. Install Ubuntu On Windows 10 Laptop
